Brian serves as the lead economic development and large industrial accounts representative for Vectren's Ohio natural gas operations. With these responsibilities, Brian works with area economic development groups and is the primary contact for Vectren's contract customers, providing not only strategic and cost saving energy solutions but also serving as a reliable liaison between top tier energy consumers and Vectren.

In 1987 Brian began his career at Vectren as part of the marketing group in Vectren's central Indiana operations. Further opportunities at Vectren allowed him to perform duties with all customer segments including residential, commercial, and industrial as well as to work with trade allies and economic development in Indiana. Brian received his Chartered Industrial Gas Consultant certification from the American Gas Association/Institute of Gas Technology in 1996. Brian has been part of Vectren's Ohio natural gas operations area since 2003.
